1. Applicability

This data privacy statement explains to users the nature, scope and purpose of the collection and use of personal data on this website by the responsible provider: draw2talk Unternehmergeellschaft (UG) (with limited liability), Am Museum 3, 82377 Penzberg, Germany, e-mail: mail@draw2talk.com, Telefon 0049 (0)152 01011566.

The legal basis for data protection can be found in the German Federal Data Protection Act (BDSG) and Telemedia Act (TMG).

2. Access data

The provider collects data on access to these services. Access data includes:

Name of the accessed website, file, date and time of access, amount of data transferred, notification on successful access, browser type plus version, the operating system of the user, referrer URL (previously visited page), IP address and the requesting provider.

The provider uses the data only for statistical analysis, for the purpose of operation, security and optimisation of the service offering. The provider reserves the right to check log data retrospectively if there is reasonable suspicion of unlawful use after concrete indications of this.

3. Management of personal data

Personal data is information that can identify a person, i.e. information that can be traced back to a person. This includes the e-mail address and the current country of residence.

Personal data will only be collected, used and passed on by the provider if permitted by law or if the user consents to the data collection.

4. Contact

When you contact the provider, the user's information is saved for the purpose of processing the request, as well as in the event that follow-up questions arise.

5. Use

When users access the provider's service, their IP addresses are saved. This is done for the security of the provider, in case someone produces or disseminates unlawful content (insults, banned political propaganda, etc.) within the scope of the service use. In this case, the provider may be prosecuted for this illegal use and therefore has an interest in ascertaining the identity of the content's author.

6. Invitations

As a registered user, you may invite other individuals to use the Internet platform of the operator. The operator processes the collected data on behalf of the registered user solely for the purpose of making contact between the already registered user and the user not yet registered and shall not use it for any other purposes.

The operator will send an invitation to the individuals you have invited via e-mail. Each invitee has the opportunity to object to the use of his e-mail address for invitations.

Please note that the recipients of the invitation will be shown your e-mail address when you send an invitation.

7. Cookies and Browser Local Storage

"Cookies" are small files that allow us to save specific information related to you (the user) on your PC or other device while you use the services of the operator. Cookies help us make our services as convenient, efficient and interesting as possible for you.

After your registration (with username and password), the operator's service uses "session cookies", through which you can be identified during the course of your session. Session cookies expire automatically after the end of the session.

You can disable the storage of cookies in your browser, limit the storage to specific websites or adjust your browser so that it notifies you whenever a cookie is sent. You can delete cookies from your device's storage at any time. Please note, however, that it is not possible to use the services of the operator if session cookies are rejected.

The registered user stays logged in to the website automatically, unless the user disables this feature in the account settings on the operator's website. For this purpose, the service uses HTML5 Browser Local Storage instead of permanent cookies. Depending on the browser, the Browser Local Storage may also be deleted by deleting the history (all content). In these circumstances as well as when changing the username and/or password, the user must log in again. Due to Browser Local Storage, using a browser function such as "login automatically on this computer" is not necessary.

8. Registration function

The data entered during registration will be used for the purpose of use of the service offering. The user can be informed via e-mail about offers or registration-relevant information such as changes to the scope of the offering or technical factors. The data collected is shown on the input screen during the registration process. This includes the e-mail address.

9. Withdrawal, changes, adjustments, and updates

The user has the right to obtain information free of charge about the stored personal data concerning him or her. In addition, the user has the right to correct inaccurate data and to block and delete their personal data if there is no legal obligation to retain them.

10. Reference to the data privacy policy

You can refer to and print out this privacy policy from any page of the operator's service under the link "Data Protection".
